From Eric AuchardFrankfurt (Reuters) - Almost a decade after the iPhone broke the mold for mobile phones The asked question is if the evolution of the smartphone is finally over, as Apple is now now treats the older and more screens Small something new. Industry experts believe that innovation in smartphones is making it place to phone functions by ticking as software or services in all new devices from cars from watch and jewelry refrigerators rather than remaining with portable devices. And the analysts and product designers have said that product designers are running against the practical limits of what is possible in the hardware of the current smartphone in terms of screen size, battery life and network capacity. "Everything in the phone industry is now incremental: slightly faster, slightly larger, slightly more memory or better resolution", "said Christian Lindholm, inventor of easy text messaging keyboards in old Nokia phones that made them The most sold mobile devices of all time. The financial episodes are high as Futures of Apple, Google and Microsoft, the three largest listed companies in the world at the end of last year, can now light those who get the jump to make redundant phone calls. Companies can experience new ways to help consumers interact with the broadest world through touch, sight and sound. These include activated personal assisting devices à €
